SHOT BY A GUIDE.

The Reported Fate of Ex-President Balmaceda.

IT READS LIKE A ROMANCE.

Leaving the Carriages the Party Started Across the Andes on Mules—The Guides Were Terrified by the Storms—A Fatal Quarrel.

New York, Sept. 1.—A report has reached here from Santiago that Balmaceda, ex-dictator of Chili, had been killed in the mountains while trying to effect his escape.

According to the story, Balmaceda left Santiago on Saturday night before the riots commenced. He took his family with him and carried a great deal of personal property, including a considerable sum of money and some jewels.

When he reached a point a few miles outside of the city he had his family abandon the carriages in which they had been traveling and took a special train which was in waiting for exactly that purpose to Los Andes, north east of Santiago.

Here Balmaceda left his family and with a companion started on Monday night to make his way across the mountains, his ultimate purpose being to reach Buenos Ayres.

The weather was bitterly cold and the snow on the ground made traveling very difficult. Balmaceda rode a mule which is the only animal that is of any use in the mountain passes through which he was making his way.

Tuesday morning the muleteers began to grumble and wanted to turn back, as the weather was becoming so severe and the ride so hard that they feared they would lose their lives.

Balmaceda, knowing that almost certain death awaited him if he turned, refused to turn back and in fit of passion struck one of the muleteers, who retaliated by drawing a pistol and shooting the ex-president dead on the spot.

His companions then settled Balmaceda's corpse upon and after rifling their victim made good their escape.

Their bodies, according to the story soon later, were found by a party of mountaineers and returned to Los Andes.

No further particulars could be obtained.

A CHILIAN MOB.

Wild Excesses of Revolted Soldiers in a Remote Town.

New York, Sept. 1.—"Corvisa" to the Herald from Valparaiso says:

Exciting news is brought today from the south by the Straits steamer which came up from Talcahuano.

The two squadrons of experienced troops which were taken to that port recently from Coquimbo by the insurgent fleet refused to sail when they heard of the defeat of the Balmacedists at Placilla last Friday. They shot to death all their officers and disbanded. Nearly 1000 coal miners joined them and together they have practically taken possession of the town and about twenty-five miles south of Concepcion.

All sorts of atrocities have been committed by them. Houses and stores have been looted and burned. The slightest pretext is said to be taken by the mob to commit outrages of the most revolting character. In fact mob-law is the order that prevails.

Some outrages have been committed also in Concepcion and Talcahuano, but the force at the disposal of the authorities there has been sufficient to save them from the fate which has overtaken the people of Coronel.

As soon as the news was received here this morning, the German war ship Sophie and the British gunboat Bulldog were ordered to go at once to Coronel and protect the interests of foreign residents there. The government officials here have also taken steps to treat the mob into subjection.

Admiral Manf and other Congressional chiefs arrived in Santiago this morning. They were received with the greatest enthusiasm by the people of the capital. General Baquedano, the acting president, received them officially. The other members of the junta are expected to arrive here from Iquique tomorrow. They will proceed at once to Santiago, when the question of reorganization of the government will be considered.

There is no disguising the fact that there is very bitter feeling here against the Americans on the part of the supporters of the revolutionists. This feeling is so strong that many of the prominent American commercial interests in Chili for some time.

The capture of the Itata first created the impression that the United States government was acting unfavorably to the revolutionary cause. This feeling was intensified by the act of Admiral Brown in first he visited Quintero bay on Aug. 2 to witness the landing of General Canto's troops. The admiral desired to see the maneuvers, and invited some of the other naval officers to come to the flagship San Francisco and go to Quintero together.

It is charged that from the guards aboard the Itata that only a small portion of the munitions perpetrated by the late government have been landed. The Congressionalists have sworn to kill to all agents whom officers are charged, and executions up to this time have been remarkably few. Much pity is felt for the families of the Balmacedist officers who have fled the country, many of them leaving left behind friendless and penniless.

There will be no fight at Coquimbo. The transport Cocapaco had taken on board a division of troops and was under orders to sail for Coquimbo today, when a formal flag of submission was received from Colonel Valcerco, commanding the forces there. General Baquedano at once sent back orders for Colonel Valcerco to retain command of his troops and to maintain order.

Order has been restored in Santiago and Valparaiso. The mobs have been beaten back and disbanded in these cities, and there is no likelihood of the authorities being unable to preserve order from this out.

Mercantile establishments have been reopened in this city and the business section is gradually resuming its customary appearance. Exchange is steadily rising.

It have been asserted by prominent men among the Congressionalists that within a month arrangements will be made to hold elections in all sections of the country, and that upon the results of these elections are to depend the junta will turn over the country to the properly constituted authorities.

The torpedo boat Almirante Lynch and the cruiser Esmeralda returned today from their fruitless search for the Aldebaran Bank. Nothing has been heard from this vessel since she left Coquimbo. Nothing has been heard from the party of President Balmaceda since he departed with his family at Los Andes. It is not likely that any definite news will be received of him until he gets within the range of telegraphic communication on the other side of the mountains.

It has been found impossible to bury all the dead which were left on Friday's field of battle with the facilities at command of the authorities, and it has therefore been decided to cremate them. This will probably be done today.

The hospitals in the city are filled and all the available medical force in the city is kept busy. It can be, many of the wounded who were wounded after the battle of Concon were left for eight days without attention. Few of the foreign surgeons who aided the Congressionalists in the sufferings of the wounded will would have been infinitely greater and many of them would have died.

WAR'S STRANGE EFFECTS.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Nothing word of news has been received at the state department from Minister Egan respecting the state of affairs in Chili, save the brief cablegram [illegible] an unimportant skirmish.

The officials of the department are at a loss to explain this reticence on the part of the minister, except upon the theory that [illegible] communicating [illegible] paralyzed. The cable terminal, and Santiago, the capital where Minister Egan resides, is not yet fully restored.

EUROPEAN NEWS.

London, Sept. 1.—The question of the Dardanelles becoming a passageway for Russian war ships to the Mediterranean is now a cause of interest even the war in Chili. A well authenticated rumor says that the foreign office will not stand idly by and see the Mediterranean invaded by a Russian fleet under the guise of volunteer transports or otherwise. The main question seems to be whether England will have to protest alone, or be sustained in such a course by the powers of the triple alliance. No doubt is entertained that Russia has been encouraged to her present aggressive attitude by an understanding with France and feels safe with France as a friend against any unpopular action on the part of Great Britain. The situation is becoming very grave, and is so regarded both in Berlin and London. Lord Salisbury, it is reported, will shorten his vacation in order to deal with the problem, which is greatly complicated by the unprecedented coolness of the sultan toward the British.

A Constantinople dispatch says that the Russian ambassadors have been dismissed into the sultan's ears the eye that withheld England's chances against Russia of interference and disinvestment at the expense of Turkey, the only great power that has actually taken possession of any important part of the sultan's dominions is England herself, and that England, under professing friendship for Turkey, ought to give up Egypt, if not also Cyprus. The sultan therefore is for the time being prejudiced against England on account of Egypt, also upholding Bulgaria against the Russian machinations. It is remembered that the Crimean war was precipitated by England's protection of a Russian proposal that England should take Egypt and allow Russia to have Constantinople, and there is an uneasy feeling that Russia will fight again rather than permit England to hold Egypt without compensation to Russia.

A dispatch from Pesth says that the poisoning mania is again spreading in southern Hungary, and three old women of the class of professional poisoners have been arrested. It appears that these women, for a consideration, poison people whom other people wish to get rid of. Husbands who have got tired of their husbands and seek that method of disposing of them to believe that a multitude of persons have perished in this way, and each of the victims was accused of having had at least ten victims. Several disclosures are expected at the approaching trial, as the prisoners are charged with having practiced their infamous trade among some prominent families of southern Hungary.

The police of Berlin are proceeding with great rigor against the socialists. The object to this effect are supposed to have come from the czar, who learned [illegible] among the plans of the plunderings of the Tolos council at Berlin, and of [illegible] working against society as at present constituted. The socialist leaders are being dogged and watched according to a system not far different from Balfour's shadowing in Ireland, and utterances capable of being construed as contrary to law are ready, the ground for [illegible] prosecution.

Great Britain was visited by a severe gale both by sea and land, yesterday and today. Great destruction was wrought along the shores, and there are many wrecks on the British coast and [illegible] along the coast. Thousands of acres in the lake districts are flooded, streams have become torrents, and the damage to property amounts to an immense sum in the total. Ireland was also visited by storm and there the swollen waters of the Shannon become so turbulent and fierce that all traffic ceased, thereby causing much loss to the people who depend on that highway of commerce.

Central American News.

City of Mexico, Sept. 1.—Letters from Guatemala state the election excitement there is very intense and it is feared no election can take place. In exchange President Barrillas will hold over and be inaugurated dictator himself of valor which Williams only cause complications in Central America in all Central America.—In Nicaragua there are fears that the canal will not be built as it is now known the company has not the funds necessary to carry on the project.

Mexican Tariff Reduction.

St. Louis, Sept. 1.—A dispatch from the City of Mexico says the new customs tariff just published makes a reduction on the duty on paper from ten to five cents per kilo. The reduction is due to the personal efforts of President Diaz, who considered that the education of the people required cheaper tariff to allow circulation of the leading journals of the republic.

The New 2% Bonds.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Bond extension operations at the treasury up to the close of business today have resulted in the extending and extension of about [illegible],000,000 of the outstanding 4½ per cents at 2 per cent. This leaves in round numbers about $25,000,000, the total of the 4½ per cent bonds presentable for redemption to-morrow. Secretary Foster will however immediately put out a circular continuing the time for securing these bonds indefinitely or subject to further notice, but this privilege probably will not last more than thirty days. Treasury officials think that from five to ten million more may be extended at 2 per cent, under this continuance, circular before the month is out. At any event Secretary Foster anticipates a great fall off upon the treasury and not the least embarrassment to meet the demands during the month for redemption of these unextended and matured bonds.

A Financial Revival.

New York, Sept. 1.—The Post says the bond market last night was one of the most interesting points in the whole financial landscape and its course in the near future will possess unusual significance. It is here rather than in the stock market that a sign of a general revival of interest on the part of the investing public are to be sought for.

Millionaires at the Fair.

RAIN TO ORDER.

Success of the Government Experiments in Texas.

MELBOURNE DOES IT TOO.

Experiments at El Paso Large Sums Available for Further Tests.

Rains at Cheyenne.

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 1.—Up to night the Times received the following special from Midland, Tex.:

The rainfall yesterday which has been coming the experiments of the Chicago [illegible] Ellis, who is in command of the expedition during General Dyrenforth's temporary absence in Washington, is making extensive preparations to have a grand test at El Paso. The mayor and citizens of El Paso have offered to bear all the expenses of the experiments, but this offer has only been accepted in part, though the smallness of the appropriation under which the rain producers have been working compels the acceptance of outside help. Many prominent Mexicans have written promises to be present to see Uncle Sam's rain producers make rain, and from letters received from all over Texas it is thought a great many people will come.

A delegation from southeastern Texas came to see Mr. Ellis yesterday and offered to advance $5,000 to pay the expenses of further experiments there. Governor Hogg is greatly interested in the subject and is in correspondence with the authorities at Washington in regard to the establishment of experiments in this state at the expense of the citizens. The rainmakers will probably go to northwest Texas from El Paso and continue the experiments there.

Melbourne's Success Alleged.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 1.—Melbourne's efforts at rain-making [illegible] with success. At [illegible] afternoon a storm suddenly broke [illegible] as all expected. [illegible] and [illegible] three hours heavier shower [illegible] with Melbourne's preliminaries. The rainfall extended [illegible] of fifteen to twenty miles around the city, and the official measurement was [illegible] inch.

The governmental observer declares there were no premonitions of the coming storm and that it was purely local. Another shower is promised in a few hours.

Those who were skeptical are now convinced that there is something in Melbourne's system. The committee having the matter in charge took every precaution to obtain a satisfactory test, and Observer Ravenscraft considered his portion of the experiment a success. They say Melbourne has long will that he agreed to abide by a [illegible] test, however, to have further tests under the supervision of government officials of Wyoming. Plenty of money could be raised here for that purpose.

The Red Hill Murderer.

Fairplay, Colo., Sept. 1.—Mora, now having his preliminary hearing upon the charge of participating in the Red Hill murders, was put on the stand this morning in Hyde's behalf. He identified the blanket found on Red Hill as his own property and said he bought the Kendler articles of Cohen on the July 5, but that he was [illegible] by Castillo. According to Mora he remained about four miles south of Fairplay during the time Castillo was on Red Hill. Mora says he is between 19 and 20 years of age.

The great point of his evidence is an effort to make the impression that he (Mora) and a child but Castillo's hands and was compelled through fear to do [illegible] Castillo said.

The court is [illegible] to say nothing of the many contradictions, entirely too transparent. If there has been any doubt as to Mora and Castillo being the murderers, [illegible] removed now.

Francis, Francisco, a sheep herder for Walter Irons, was [illegible] by reason of [illegible] while [illegible] this afternoon.

An Alarming Indian Outbreak.

New York, Sept. 1.—News of an outbreak among the Indians of Chilkat, Alaska, has been received in this city from Sitka. According to the advices, the United States gunboat Pinta was summoned in here by the citizens of that place and remained there three days awaiting developments. The Indians were [illegible] and [illegible] three days, when a heavier shower [illegible] with Melbourne's preliminaries. The rainfall extended [illegible] of fifteen to twenty miles around the city, and the official measurement was [illegible] inch.

It is understood at Sitka that the matter was settled without bloodshed, but at the writing of the advices the Pinta was preparing for a second visit to the place.

Whipple Grocery Fail.

Denver, Sept. 1.—The John Thompson Grocery Co.'s place on Fifteenth street, near Lawrence, was closed this morning on attachments. The C. S. Morey Mercantile Co. sued out an attachment for $24,000, buying out a previous attachment for $7,000 by another creditor. The Mercantile company then took a bill of sale for everything in the store and are now in possession. The bill of sale was taken in full settlement of the Mercantile company's claim. It is said that there are unsecured creditors to the amount of nearly $50,000.

Atlantic City Hotel Bankrupt.

New York, Sept. 1.—A special from Atlantic City says: The failure is announced of three of the largest hotels here—the United States, Congress Hall and Cambridge. Very few particulars can as yet be obtained, but the backward season is supposed to be the cause of the failure.

Another Accident.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 1.—About as complete a demolition as ever visited hotels in this city is being [illegible] brought out here now, the [illegible] all of the past season's poor takings. Hugo Herold, the proprietor of the United Union hotel has left town with $[illegible] debts in hand him.

Congress Hall has gone up with about $[illegible] indebtedness, though it is understood that the whole amount will be [illegible] by the Cook Bros., the owners of the building, who had leased it to T. C. Gillette, the present proprietor. Several other large houses remain yet to be [illegible] of their status.

BASE BALL.

Western Association.

National League.

Boston-Pittsburg.

Cincinnati, Sept. 1.—Inability to hit Mr. Rhines' curves was given most credit by the home team as what caused the defeat to day's game to the Reds this afternoon. McPhee's work [illegible] Special communication. Lowe made a costly muff of a fly ball. Clarkson pitched effectively, but not effective enough to hold the Andys away from the home run. Score: Cincinnati 4, Boston 3.

Pittsburg-Philadelphia.

Pittsburg, Sept. 1.—Pittsburg easily defeated the Philadelphias by 8 to 0 today, because Baldwin was in an unpleasable mood until it was too late for the visitors to do any batting to work with the stick. Esper would have been more effective had he had good support. Corkhill, however, had his eye on the ball and hit for a home run and two singles. Score: Pittsburg 8, Philadelphia 4.

Cleveland-Brooklyn.

Cleveland, Sept. 1.—Of the seven runs scored by the home team today five of them were earned by clean hitting. Carruthers was in the box for the visitors and proved an easy mark for the Clevelanders. Young, however, was in good form and pitched brilliantly and was well supported, the one run made by the Grooms being earned. The Brooklyns also put a good fielding game up, but were beat at bat.

Chicago-New York.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Up to the sixth inning few men on either side had planted their feet safely on the bases, and those [illegible] were all left there through the efforts of each who were playing gilt-edge ball. In the sixth, however, after two men were out, the Giants [illegible] Ewing, Connor and Richardson on bases on balls by Ryan, hits by Ewing and Carroll, and two cleverly stolen bases by Ryan and the Old Man got two runs across the plate. These runs would have won Ryan the game, as the Chicago stick could not [illegible] but one, man over the rubber. But Anson was calling loud [illegible] so he should have [illegible] his clever coaching and [illegible] again in the seventh and ninth innings, getting a run in each of these innings by [illegible] base running and good judgment in sacrificing thus getting a run on the game. John Ewing and Vickery both pitched fine ball and both teams played a good fielding game, but the Jaks were against Muttle's men and they were beaten out, score: Chicago 6, New York 3.

Commissioner of Agriculture Helgen's official statement places the wheat acreage at 3,000,000 acres, with an average yield of seventeen bushels to the acre, making the aggregate yield 51,000,000 bushels, and his estimate will fall short of the actual crop.

An Archbishop's Jubilee.

St. Louis, Sept. 1.—From present indications the celebration of Right Rev. Deceased was one of the best known men in the west. He came to Colorado in 1871 with a commission in his pocket from President Grant which made him one of the associate judges of the territory. He was a native of New York, was prominent in the war and later on in politics, but for many years has been affiliated with the Prohibitionists.

Judge Brazee was most highly esteemed and his death has cast a gloom over the city.

A PLEASANT PARTY.

Officers and Teachers of the Railroad Union Mission of Denver at the Manitou.

One of the quietest yet jolliest little excursion parties that has visited Colorado Springs this summer got in yesterday. It was composed of the teachers and officers of the Railroad Union Mission of Denver, a well known benevolence, and was a complimentary excursion by the Rock Island railroad and the rapid transit road.

The party numbered about fifty ladies and gentlemen and arrived at 11:15 over the Rock Island. Mr. W. H. Firth of the passenger department of the road was in charge and made things pleasant for everyone. The Rock Island deserves great credit for the part which it took in the excursion, as the ladies and gentlemen of the mission applied for a rate and the company replied by offering a special car and free transportation for the party. It was expected that seventy would come but only about fifty came. The rapid transit company of this city, not to be outdone in generosity, had two cars in waiting and immediately took the guests to Cheyenne Canon.

Upon arrival at the pavilion the visitors formed themselves into a meeting and elected Justice Hamilton of the Rock Island said a few [illegible] officers for their generosity. General Robert S. Lowe, treasurer of the mission, spoke a few words complimentary to the Rapid Transit company and to Secretary of State Baker, who had been largely instrumental in securing the favor. City attorney Williams of Denver, who is superintendent of the Sunday school, spoke complimentary to the Rock Island and Mr. Firth. The visitors then scattered through the park and ate their basket lunches on the green grass. Nearly every one of them visited the falls and the [illegible] of "Pt. H," as it was necessary for the party to return by the afternoon Rock Island train, the [illegible] cars left the canon at a quarter to 5 o'clock, which did not even permit of a visit to the Cheyenne and the photographing of the party, which all needed. A quick run was made to the D. & R. G. depot and at 5:30 the visitors left, having enjoyed a delightful day. It is to be hoped that they may be able to visit Colorado Springs again at some future day, when they will be shown more of the sights of the vicinity.

Among those accompanying the party were Rev. Mr. Phanstiehl of the Capitol Avenue Presbyterian church, Rev. O. J. M. Crane of St. Paul's M. E. church, Mr. P. J. Atkins of the board of trustees, Gen. R. S. Roe, Mr. J. N. Tooke, federal secretary and Mr. F. A. Williams, city attorney of Denver.

The Railroad Union mission of Denver is one of the notable benevolent organizations of the west and in some respects the most remarkable in the United States. Its influence for good is known and recognized throughout the state, and especially in Denver, as is evidenced by the consideration shown the noble band of workers yesterday, when they desired to take a little recreation from their duties. It was founded nineteen years ago by Mr. F. J. B. Crane, who left to it a block of property in the city of Denver. This property was left in charge of seven trustees selected from the Central Presbyterian church, St. John's Episcopal church, St. Paul's M. E. church, the First Baptist church, Trinity M. E. church and the Capitol Avenue Presbyterian church. Mr. Crane founded the mission as a thankoffering for the relief from illness he had found in Colorado, and he chose the name and selected the trustees that it might never become sectarian. The mission has a free library, reading rooms, etc., handsomely furnished and kept open from 9 a.m. until 11 p.m. It has a relief department, employment agency and free dispensatory. To show the work that it is doing it is only necessary to say that 35,000 persons visited the mission in the past year, that work was found for 876 men and 1763 women. It tries to reach all classes, and everything about the mission is free. The work is conducted something on the order of the Y. M. C. A., but is essentially different. The mission Sunday school is the second largest Sunday school in the state, and Mr. Williams is the superintendent. Colorado's reputation requires the prompt capture and punishment of the Rio Grande train robbers. So large a part of her prosperity is dependent on tourists that the safety of the roads is a paramount consideration. Immunity from punishment in a case of this kind is an invitation to other similar crimes.

Minister Egan's chief official service seems to have been to heighten the ignorance which prevailed in this country concerning the Chilian war. During the last few days his silence has been abysmal. The state Department, being diplomatically awake at last to the fact that something is happening, and as it can not trust its augurs self to say that is not three days late and marked official, is getting anxious. Can it be that the Hon. Minister Pendleton is shirking the palatial accommodations of Balmaceda's traveling carriage?

The uneasiness of the European situation is loudly demonstrated by rousing war rumors. Everyone knows that a great war is a thing which is very likely to happen and it is rarely used that every new complication should give rise to rumors and speculations regarding its terrible outcome. War often arises from trivial happenings and while it has so threateningly over Europe it is impossible to say how slight an event may bring it down. The most recent diplomatic complication arises from the old-time jealousies of Russia and Great Britain, and the assumed necessity for the latter power to keep a long line of communication with India. To any person not versed otherwise it would seem as though Great Britain was rather unfortunate in declaring that Russia should not have the right to send war ships through the Bosphorus, especially since Turkey makes no objection. If the Russians and Turks were so powerful as Great Britain's thin view would position, it is but in European politics it is might which prevails every time.

It is rather surprising at first thought to find Turkey leagued with her old enemy, Russia, and against her old friend, England. But the friendship of England during the past few years has been rather an expensive one to Turkey. England has been acting very much the role of the plaintiff-ted friend who says: "Just blackguard over there in Turkey as much as you please, so far as I'm concerned. I will take them myself." In 1878 the control of Turkey was closely guarded by England and Turkey alleged England for all future time to defend by force of arms the Asiatic dominions of the sultan in consideration of a promise by the Turkish government to introduce all necessary reforms as agreed on by England, and of the assignment of the island of Cyprus to England for occupation and administration. England occupied Cyprus quickly enough, and in 1882 she took Egypt in the same summary way. Turkey did not, — out the promised reforms as nobody thought she would. So England is in a position where she may have a ready excuse for interfering in Turkish affairs if she sees fit to do so, while on the other hand the broken treaty absolves her from any claim to which she may not be ready to yield. These are the things to which the Russians have been busily calling the sultan's attention, while the French jealousy of the English occupation of Egypt and the new found friendship of France and Russia furnish a secondary motive. But unfortunate Turkey will have little to gain from abandoning [illegible] and probably will only be [illegible] the frying pan. When it comes to being eaten by wild animals there is little choice between British lion and Russian bear.

OXFORD BOAT 1861.

...The first decided change in racing boats ...as the introduction of the outrigger. ...o invention is generally credited to ...ny Clasby, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, who ...ame world renowned as a boat builder ...the early history of rowing. He first ...eriously built racing wherries with raised ...n wales, which gave practically outrig...er space, and this was soon followed by the ...e of still further improving the ...ce by placing fixed outriggers. ...ed to put the idea into execution in 1844, and ...ok the boat to Lambeth, where it immedi...ely proved a success, and the use of fixed ...utriggers has ever since been a general ...ture. The idea was not entirely orig...al, for rigged wooden outriggers had been ...ed in England in 1842 and 1843, but by ...eason of their incorrect application were ...f little value.

The next change in the racing boat was even more radical. This was the introduc...tion of sliding seats, and was due to the ...genuity of an American. Sliding on a ...xed seat had been practiced occasionally, ...ng before Mr. J. C. Babcock, of the New ...ork Boat club, of New York, perfected the ...dea in 1870. Scullers were aware of the ...act that sliding would facilitate speed by ...bringing into play the powerful muscles of ...the legs, and—...—had been known where ...oats had previously been given for this ...urpose. But, unfortunately, though ...ore speed could be attained on a given ...ace the great friction shortly exhausted the ...sculler's entire frame, besides making it ...decidedly uncomfortable for a certain por...tion of his anatomy.

Mr. Babcock constructed his first sliding ...oat in 1857, and another sculler, Mr. W. ...Brown, tried one in 1861 but relinquished its ...

SINGLE SHELL—1891.

...n 1869 Mr. Babcock again tried his hand, ...and turned out a six-oared crew on ...hich he then discovered that the appa...ratus increased their speed considerably.

After this sliding seats came into general ...se, and the two Tyne crews which came ...o America in 1871 took the idea back to ...England, where it shortly became popular. ...Oarsmen held up their hands in holy ...horror, for it was seen that a crew rowing ...a good form on slides could beat a good ...crew on fixed seats. The slide, however, ...simply revolutionized rowing, and when ...its proper use was learned there was no ...further objection raised.

The first sliding seat simply ran in an ...iron groove. After the friction was lessened ...by substituting two narrow strips of steel, ...which were oiled, and on which the seat ...moved, but of late years the seat has been ...

...mounted on rollers, which lessens the ...friction still more and does away with the ...noise which formerly besmeared the oars ...and rowlocks. Further changes of doubtful value ...have also been tried recently. Boats have ...been constructed with slide on runners, ...running slightly aft, on the theory of assisting the paraffin on the water—...—which relieves those muscles which require the least assistance its utility is doubtful. The same may be said of slides ...inclining alternately toward the starboard ...and port sides, which have recently been ...tried in English eights, on the ground that ...the oarsmen thereby obtain a greater reach. ...Slides are made from six to twelve inches ...in height, and the advantage over fixed ...seats said to be gained by their use, though ...not positively known, is about twelve inches ...only to the mile.

The early races were rowed entirely in ...wooden boats with keels. These were ...gradually superseded by keelless boats. ...The first paper boats were invented by an ...American in 1867, and they almost immediately took the place of wooden boats, which were cumbersome and heavy. Of late years, however, boat building has reached such points of perfection that cedar shells are again taking the place of paper, for they are made lighter and are found to be speedier. Paper shells will doubtless long be used for practice, as they are much tougher than those of wood, but the racing of the future will probably be entirely confined to cedar shells. Harvard's crew visited Great Britain last June to practically demonstrate the fact that she used a cedar shell while Yale rowed a paper boat.

The average dimensions of an eight oared shell of thirty years ago carrying the same weight as those of today may be interesting for comparison: 1863—Length, 57 feet; beam, 20 inches; depth at stern, 6 inches. 1892—Length, 61 feet; beam, 12 inches; depth at stern, 8½ inches.

Sorakichi was born in Japan, thirty-two years ago, became well known in Tokio wrestler, and came to America in 1883. The first match that brought him to attention was a draw with big Carl Abs, who afterward threw him, as did Muldoon and Duncan C. Ross.

A victory over Jack Gallagher, a draw with Ernest Roeber and victories over many well known wrestlers gave Sorakichi a national reputation. In 1886 he was badly used up by Evan Lewis, who broke one of the Jap's legs at Chicago. He was never the same man after this match. His last bout was three months ago, when he met "Farmer" Burns in Philadelphia. The result of Sorakichi's career was his marriage, in 1883, to Ella B. Lodge, a pretty Quakeress of Philadelphia, but the romance was soon ended by domestic infelicity that continued up to the time of the wrestler's death. Sorakichi died penniless at the Nippon club, and was buried by Japanese friends.

The Sight Pitcher of Kansas City.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Kansas City Blues, of which great things were expected this season, have been keeping close to the "tailenders" of the Western association, Frank Pears, the "kid pitcher of Kansas City," has established his already well established good reputation. This promising young player, who started with Kansas City last year, made a great record for himself, ranking higher than first class pitchers like Conway, Stratzell and many others, and had an excellent fielding average.

His clever work made a most favorable impression on the management of the club and the ball cranks of Kansas City...

FRANK PEARS.

...and they simply swear by him. He was considered too valuable to let go, was re-engaged for this season. His work in the box up to date has been simply phenomenal. He has pitched winning ball from club to winning club, while in batting his high standard, while his batting was his only weak point last year, he has improved greatly. When the averages are totaled up at the end of the present season, it will be found that young Pears will be well up among the leaders not only in pitching, but in batting and fielding also.

He remains a most enthusiastic American, raising the star spangled banner over his house on every holiday, Italian or American. When Mrs. Astor was in Florence several years ago she was very ill, and felt so grateful for the skillful treatment of Dr. Baldwin that she presented him with a pearl scarpin richly set and very beautiful. The doctor declares that he visited America solely on his own private business.

...high and weighs 2,365 pounds. He is a dark chestnut in color, and is probably not only one of the largest but also one of the handsomest equines in existence. He was formerly a stallion, and was imported from France by a Kentucky horse breeder, who paid $4,000 for him. While in the stud he could bite and kick on the slightest provocation, and he soon killed one of his attendants.

The scent of blood aroused, to make him more vicious, and it was not long before he killed another man. At this juncture he was changed to a gelding, and his temper is much improved. He is 5 years old, and can trot in four minutes.

One of the well known skippers whose ...has won many ovations in America and abroad is Charles Barr, who was born in Scotland twenty-seven years ago. He comes of a family of boatmen, and his brothers, Captain John Barr, sailed the Scotch cutter Thistle in her unsuccessful race with the Volunteer in 1887 for the America cup. The subject of this sketch took to the water at an early age, and about the time he was old enough to vote distinguished himself in 1884 he brought her to America. He also brought over the Minerva, and was one of his brother's crew on the Thistle. His work with the Minerva was very successful. In two years he won twenty-five out of thirty-four races that the craft entered. This year he has handled A. B. Turner's Quaqua with marked success.

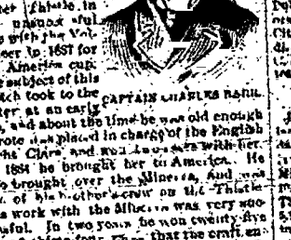
Ramie Fiber for Pipes.

Steam pipes are made of ramie fiber, hardened under tremendous hydraulic pressure, and possessing a tensile strength equal to two and one-half times that of steel. The ramie fiber, or China grass, has the property of being unaffected by moisture; it will not shrink nor swell, it is a nonconductor of heat, it cannot rust, and these features, together with its great strength, are all desirable in steam pipes, its utilization in this line being regarded, therefore, as one of the possibilities of the future.—New York Sun.

The Fleet Maggie B.

Maggie B, the famous pacer is a daughter of Kilbuck Tom, the old pacer that sired Tariff, Leopard, Hope, 2:15¼. In August, 1890, Maggie B first attracted attention at Chicago when she won two heats in the Northwestern Breeders' 2:23 pacing class in 2:18 and 2:19¾. She entered the grand circuit for the first time in 1891, and during the season defeated such well known horses as Westmont, Pickaway, Charley Frost, Gray Harry, Dallas and Dodd Nut and reduced her record to 2:15¼.



MAGGIE B—2:15¼.

This year at the Detroit meeting she defeated Emma Pickaway, Simmie and others in the 2:16 class. At Cleveland she cut record to Monarch, Simmie and a number of others, while in batting for high standard, while in batting which was his only weak point last year, he has improved greatly. When the averages are totaled up at the end of the present season, it will be found that young Pears will be well up among the leaders not only in pitching, but in batting and fielding also.

California has for a number of years transported similarly arranged cars to all parts of the east which have turned up much good for the country. "Colorado on Wheels" will owe its existence to Mr. Foster, who is its projector. The Rocky Mountain company has been showing considerable enterprise since Mr. S. E. Land has filled the position of president.

The motorman sent the car at full speed down the track and was soon far beyond the spot. Various opinions were advanced in regard to the shooting but it has not been discovered by whom or with what intent the gun was fired.

The object is stated at length and is to manufacture electricity, conduct hotels, restaurants, [illegible] etc. It is the intention of the company to operate Captain De Coursey's beautiful tract of land in the Fountain valley, known as Fairmount park, but the details are not yet ready for the public.

IT WAS NO USE.

He Had Begun for His Actions, but Something Was Wrong.

When the train pulled up into the way station the young woman was standing on the station platform surrounded by several other young women, who were all talking at once. The young man stood a short distance away, holding a big valise.

"Hop on there, Maria," he called out. "Don't be all day about it."

Every girl in the crowd, with the exception of the one with a valise, scowled, "Oh!" and looked as though something dreadful had happened. She retorted:

"Hop on yourself if you want to. I'm coming."

The other girls said "Oh!" again, and the young man got on the train. Then he called out again:

"Come on, I've got a note on you, Maria. You'll pay an extra cent off of double one."

"I'll see about it later, Jacob," she called back.

Then the train pulled out, the girls good by and bowed to the young lady as she settled herself comfortably on the other seat, while the old lady behind exclaimed, "Well, I never!" and some one else muttered, "The hussy!"

For fifteen minutes after the train started he pretended to be reading a paper and kept a lookout on the window. But every minute or two he glanced at the over the top of his paper and her gaze frequently rested on his face.

And she seemed to be proud of him. Suddenly she leaned forward with the exclamation:

"Jacob, do you need every paper in this car?"

He threw her over one he had in his lap.

"I order you didn't think of it before," she said.

"You're able to speak out if you want anything," he retorted. "You've got a tongue!"

There were no comments from various portions of the car and every one seemed to be wondering what he would do next.

Ten minutes later he looked steadily across the car. Every eye was fixed on him or the young woman who was looking shyly over the top of her paper. He threw his down.

"Maria," he said, "they're sized us up. We can't fool 'em and there's no use trying."

A minute later the newly made wife's head was pillowed on her husband's shoulder, and as she looked up into his eyes she suggested:

"Perhaps we ought did it, Jacob."

"Perhaps we did," he said, "but this is better any way."

Then he kicked the papers into the aisle and they caroled on a whispered conversation for ninety miles.—Chicago [illegible].

To Help Laboring Men.

To overcome the serious results that are experienced upon coming from protracted labor under compressed air, a waiting chamber, which one can visit and have the change of pressure take place gradually, has been used of late, and it has been found that some diseases incident to such work are prevented and some even cured. The time for resting varies from five to twenty minutes.—New York Times.

REMARKABLE REPRODUCTIONS AN AMERICAN ARTIST OF RISING FAME.

Prior to his departure for Europe, E. S. Paxson, a member of the Art League of New York, is making Colorado Springs a short visit. Patrons of fine art will not only find this a rare opportunity to secure treasures, but at the same time an investment which must increase in value with the certain increase of the artist's prices and fame. The artist will be represented here by his brother, F. A. Paxson, who has arranged to exhibit at Van Pelton, Bass & Hoag store, Tejon and Kiowa Sts., specimens of the artista work—including [illegible] portraits, full length figures, reliefs in clay etc. These remarkably fine [illegible] productions [illegible] attention on account of the loveliness and force of character of the subjects themselves, but their fine lights, shadows, relief, color and textures are revelations of true art compared with the commercial imitations too often tolerated.
